AMERICANS EIGHT MILES INTO GERMANY

Canadian Troops Over Leopold Canal

TROOPS of the Canadian 1st Army yesterday crossed the Leopold Canal, five miles north-east of Bruges and about two miles from the Dutch frontier, states Reuter. The Germans have been forced to withdraw from the Albert Canal.

The Canadians' crossing of the Leopold Canal was made under heavy machine-gun and mortar fire from the Germans protecting the rear of their shrinking bridgehead on the west bank of the Scheldt.

Late messages last night reported that their bridgehead—300 yards wide and 1,000 deep—contracted during the day under the weight of two powerful German counter-attacks.

These counter-attacks led to one of the toughest battles of recent weeks. The Canadians were faced by Germans using mortars and machine-guns in a manner reminiscent of the drive to Falaise.

Troops crossed the canal in assault boats and punts, and established a bridgehead on the east bank. Then the Germans opened a concentrated artillery and mortar barrage. They launched two strong counter-attacks from north-east and south-east, and the Canadians, with their light weapons, were forced to give ground.

While the Germans have been driven back from the Albert Canal, their rearguards north of Gheel are still fighting ferociously.

Allied troops at a point 18 miles to the north-west of Aachen are battling into Holland. They have now consolidated a second crossing near Maastricht, but there is no confirmation so far of reports that the troops have crossed the Maas River.

To the south, American and French forces are closing in for the battle for the Belfort gap—the gateway to Southern Germany. They are driving forward on a semi-circular front, stretching from west to south of Belfort itself. At the nearest points their spearheads are within 15 miles of the city.

BREST FIGHTS ON

German Radio reported last night that the defender of Brest, Parachute-General Ramke, has sent this message to the German High Command: "I and the depleted garrison have rejected another enemy demand of surrender. True to our oath to the colours, we are determined to fight on in the ruins of the town to the very last man."

Americans are fighting in the west of the city of Brest and also in the U-boat pen area, where a number of Germans are holding out. The port was raided again yesterday.

Bombardment of Aachen

THE INITIAL MAJOR OBSTACLES OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE HAVE BEEN OVERCOME, AND THE TOWN OF AACHEN IS BEING SHELLED BY THE AMERICANS, IT WAS ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT AT ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS.

U.S. forces, states Reuter, are within a mile of Aachen, in the area of which they have crossed the frontier on a nine-mile front.

Forty miles to the south-east, General Hodges has thrust strong 1st Army concentrations nearly eight miles into Germany on a wide front. This advance has brought the Allies near the town of Prum. North-west of this place, another crossing of the frontier has been made.

Several small German towns, as yet unnamed, have been captured. In addition, the Americans have reached the towns of Forstebach, Kopsehen, and Wormhof, all in the Aachen area.

German opposition is reported to be strengthening along the entire front.

(Reuter, A.P. and P.A.)

General Hodge's troops broke through the first line of the Siegfried defences yesterday. They battled two miles deep into the Siegfried Line north-west of Trier.

The attack was launched at noon with tanks and troops slogging through mud. Within an hour they had breached the first thin crust of the German line, which was softened up the previous day by a terrific artillery pounding. Some pill-boxes were by-passed by the initial wave, and they are being blown to pieces by tanks charging at point-blank range.

TANK BARRIERS

The American troops are not yet through all of the Siegfried Line in this sector, because the Germans have built a double belt of concrete tank barriers and thick-walled forts, but they have smashed the first belt and are on their way towards the second.

The Germans fought grimly and the Americans had to advance bunker by bunker and pill-box by pill-box.

Initial stiff resistance was encountered half a mile across the Our River, where the Germans sprayed the advancing columns with machine-gun and rifle fire, and houses in the village had to be set ablaze to rout them.

The American troops had a tremendous advantage with tanks and artillery against this section of the Siegfried Line, which was manned by troops with only rifles and machine-guns.

This advance has carried the U.S. 1st Army between seven and a half and eight miles into Germany along a wide front.

The advance was made in the direction of the important highway junction at Prum, east of the north-east border of Luxembourg. The American troops are fighting 2,000 to 3,000 yards outside the town.

American tanks knocked out four forts and an observation tower in making the breach. Other defences fell in quick succession.

U.S. forces are one mile south-east of Aachen and heavy artillery—probably emanating from the city itself—has been observed.

South of Aachen American infantry pushed through very dense German forests as they fought into the fringes of the Siegfried Line.

The troops reached the vicinity of the towns of Fringsbaus and Malattshaute, about six or seven miles south-east of Aachen. Small German pockets of resistance are being cleared up in this area.

American troops, fighting in tight concentrations, were slowed up slightly by the increased German resistance in the area, but the Americans are still making satisfactory progress. The chief German resistance came from pill-boxes, supported by some heavy artillery firing from behind the Siegfried Line.

BREAKTHROUGH

German Radio last night reported that American troops had penetrated the advanced defences of the Western Wall at two points south of Aachen.

The German News Agency stated that the Americans had achieved a breakthrough beyond Maastricht to the forefield of Aachen, and that bitter fighting continued in the entire area as far as south of Aachen.

"Attacks followed counter-attacks in almost unbroken succession," the Agency added. "The Americans finally succeeded in achieving breakthroughs which led to the withdrawal of our troops to a line running from Maastricht to Valkenburg (12 miles north-west of Aachen) and the forefield of Aachen.

"In an all-out effort, backed by continuous heavy air bombing, the Americans succeeded in breaking in at two places into the outposts of the West Wall. They were thrown back, but continued their attacks despite heavy losses.

"North of Metz the Germans repelled an attack against the northern sector of their bridgehead. While further American attacks against the Pont-a-Mousson bridgehead were held, they succeeded in pushing their way through the strong German defences south of that bridgehead, and pressed on in the direction of Chateau Salins. The breach was sealed off by hurriedly-brought-up reserves, and the Americans were unable to take advantage of their reinforcements in armour."

TOWNS TAKEN

The Press Association correspondent at Allied Supreme Headquarters states:

A number of small German towns, in addition to Roetgen, to the south of Aachen, have been captured, and General Hodge's men are over into Germany in considerable strength.

Possession in considerable strength of the high ground about Roetgen enables Allied artillery fire to bear not only on Aachen, but on two other important junctions on the direct road to Cologne, Eschweiler and Duren.

Duren is nearly 20 miles from the border at Aachen and deep in the Siegfried defence zone.

German radio last night stated: "Now the Allies will find out what it is like to be on enemy soil. Grim experiences lie before them."

BRITAIN'S PART IN WAR WITH JAPAN PLANNED

PLANS for Britain's rôle in the great offensive against Japan are being completed at the conference in Quebec. Sir Godfrey Ince, British Director-General of Manpower, is in Quebec, and has assisted in conferences regarding Britain's contribution to the United Nations' pool of men and materials.

Sir Godfrey is understood to have given to the Joint Chiefs of Staff estimates of the number of troops Britain can put into each phase of the coming offensive against Japan, says a Reuter telegram from Quebec. Known as a genius with facts and figures, he has discussed details of the transfer of Britain's power in Europe to the Pacific.

Sir Godfrey Ince has only been seen in Quebec during the last few hours, but he actually arrived here, the correspondent says, secretly several days ago. Sir Eric Speed, Joint Permanent Under-Secretary of State for War, is also in Quebec. The master plan which both the British and Americans are putting up is expected to be completed before the President leaves for Washington this week-end. Much organisation will still remain to be done by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, but the main decisions will have to be taken.

Mr. Churchill yesterday attended a session of the Quebec Legislature, accompanied by Mr. Mackenzie King, the Canadian Prime Minister, and M. Maurice Duplessis, Premier of Quebec.

Mr. Stephen Early, President Roosevelt's Secretary, said yesterday in Quebec that the command for the forthcoming offensive against Japan was decided on before the Quebec Conference.

Mr. Churchill spent nearly all day in conferences with President Roosevelt and the military leaders. Mr. Richard Law, British Minister of State, held a long conference with Mr. Churchill yesterday, and also visited President Roosevelt.

Mr. Churchill is not expected to return to Britain this week-end, although President Roosevelt is leaving for the United States. It is thought possible that Mr. Churchill will spend a few days fishing as a relaxation from his recent arduous days. There is neither confirmation nor denial of the speculation that he may go to Ottawa.

According to authoritative quarters in Quebec, Mr. Eden will discuss a wide range of political questions with Mr. Churchill and President Roosevelt when he arrives at the conference. While he is attending the conference officially Mr. Eden will also discuss British matters of State with Mr. Churchill. Spokesmen in Quebec took pains to stress that he was not coming on any urgent question, such as the Polish-Soviet dispute, but would, in the main, have general conferences with Mr. Churchill and the President on subjects arising from the military decisions taken at the conference.

Mr. Eden's Non-Stop Flight

MR. EDEN arrived in Quebec last night. He had flown non-stop from England by way of Iceland and Labrador, and covered 3,300 miles in seven and a-half hours.

Many More Amendments To Transport Bill

IN addition to the large number of amendments already tabled in connection with the Transport (No. 2) Bill, Mr. P. McGilligan (F.G.) has given notice of forty-five others. The most important of these is concerned with Section 13 of the bill, which deals with the substitution of stock of the proposed new company for stock of the dissolved companies.

One of Mr. McGilligan's proposals is that the High Court should have jurisdiction to determine the amount of stock in the new company to be allocated in substitution to each holder of any stock in the undertakings which are to be absorbed. In arriving at its decision the Court would be entitled to take into consideration all the circumstances of the dissolved companies, the value of a net earning basis on that date in the wasting assets of the dissolved companies not provided for by reserves, the amount of capital required to make good such depreciation, and the aggregate amount of such dividends, if any, paid to stockholders of the dissolved companies as were drawn from reserves, subventions or other non-recurrent sources, and were not paid out of revenue earned annually by each company from the provision of transport services.

Another proposal is that a person who immediately before the establishment date was a registered holder of stock of either of the dissolved companies, but who was not a registered holder on March 1st, 1943, shall not be entitled thereby to become the registered holder of any stock of the new company, but the company shall pay to every such person in cash the amount determined by the High Court.

THE NEW BOARD

It is also proposed by Mr. McGilligan to include on the board of the new company representatives of the transport users and three representatives of employees.

In substitution of the provisions in the bill that the chairman constitute a quorum, that no meeting be held without him and no decision taken without his concurrence, Mr. McGilligan will propose that the determination of any matter before the Board shall be according to the opinion of the majority of members voting on the question.

In connection with Section 41, Mr. John A Costello (F.G.) will move that an officer or servant of a dissolved company of twenty years' service who desires to retire shall be paid during life a sum not exceeding two-thirds of his remuneration and emoluments.

May Leave Norway

MR. HENRY L. STIMSON, U.S. Secretary of War, said in Washington yesterday that the Germans might abandon Norway and Denmark in order to strengthen the West Wall. The Germans were trying "frantically" to strengthen the Siegfried Line.

"The strong defence of the approaches to Metz showed the formidable character of the enemy's resistance, even in positions which are outposts."

Parts of the 7th and 15th German armies, which escaped from Northern France and Belgium, had already recuperated and might be manning the West Wall.—(Reuter.)

Big Moves Ahead For Australians

Mr. Francis M. Forde, Australian Army Minister, speaking at the fifth anniversary of the Australian Force in Canberra, says Reuter, hinted that big moves were ahead for the A.I.F.—operations as important as any campaign fought by Australians.

The task, he said, was not one for small forces.

Reuter's Special Correspondent in Kandy, Ceylon, said last night that General Slim's 14th Army, after gaining 120 miles of the Tiddim Road, are moving on to what will probably be a critical action, crossing the Manipur River in pursuit of the Japanese.

The Japanese have strengthened the natural defences covering the crossings and the 6,000 feet hills through which the road winds to the river are honeycombed with bunkers and foxholes.

Eastern Command Liberators in a daylight attack on Moulmein, in Western Siam, yesterday scored hits on railway yards, warehouses and jetties.

Stiff Battle In Apennine Sector

BRITISH, Indian and Canadian troops have gained another 1,000 yards in their advance through the "ridge" country towards Rimini, on the Adriatic coast, eastern anchor of the Gothic Line, which bars the way to the great north Italian plain, stated Reuter last night. The whole weight of the German forces is being flung in against them, and the fighting is among the most bitter of the Italian campaign.

General Leese's troops have put in strong armour and infantry thrusts. Gurkhas appeared for the first time on the Coriano-San Savino ridge. Dug-in tanks are being used by the Germans.

The Fifth Army's drive, which has carried it right into the Gothic Line defence belt, has been accomplished with the aid of British divisions. Among them is the South African Sixth Armoured Division, which captured Pistoia on September 10th.

A stiff battle for a breakthrough in the wild Apennine country north and west of Florence is under way.

The British Secretary for India, Mr. L. S. Amery, visited the Indian Division with the Eighth Army on Wednesday. At one point Mr. Amery was within 2,000 yards of the forward lines watching Indian and British troops pinned down by fierce counter-attacks.

"Italian partisans have impeded traffic on the main Genoa-La Spezia railway line and have captured Gravellona, south of Domodossola.—(Reuter.)

Shelling of English Coast

The bombardment of the south-east coast of England, in the vicinity of Dover, by German guns was renewed at noon yesterday. Shells were fired at irregular intervals starting with a single one, later increasing in number. Violent gunfire in the Boulogne area was heard about the same time.

The shelling was renewed at 2.15 on the south-east coast at intervals of about five minutes for a time. Heavy gunfire was also heard in Hastings, which it was believed came from the Pas de Calais area.

One-third of Warsaw Captured

Marshal Rokossovsky.

PRAGA, the great industrial suburb of Warsaw on the east bank of the Vistula, and forming about one-third of the Polish capital, was captured by Marshal Rokossovsky's 1st White Russian Army Group yesterday.

Sharing in this victory—achieved after six weeks of bloody fighting—was the 1st Polish Army, established and equipped on Soviet soil.

The German High Command, says Reuter's special correspondent in Moscow, is massing big reserves to meet the threat to the Reich from the East, as the Vistula—the last great water line before Germany itself—is about to be subjected to the same tactics which carried the crossings of the broader and deeper rivers to the east.

The capture of Praga was announced last night in an Order of the Day from Marshal Stalin, which directed Moscow guns to fire a salute of twenty salvoes from 224 guns.

This is how Stalin described the Red Army's success in some of the most bloody fighting of the summer campaign:—"Troops of the 1st White Russian front, as the result of prolonged and stubborn fighting, to-day captured the fortress of Praga, a suburb of Warsaw, and an important German defence base on the east bank of the Vistula."

A few hours before Berlin had admitted that Soviet tanks had crashed into the streets of the suburb. Intense blows by the Red Air Force were reported as Marshal Rokossovsky made the final assault.

Only the four Vistula bridges now separate the advancing Russians from the outnumbered patriots still fighting against heavy odds within the main part of the city on the west bank. Directly facing Praga is the "old town," parts of which were captured by the Poles in the early stages of the insurrection.

Marshal Rokossovsky's troops first reached the Praga outskirts at the opening of August, but fresh Panzer divisions were raced to the threatened sector, and, in swaying battles, the Germans thrust the Red Army back to the north-east. For more than a month the Germans were counter-attacking.

The capture of the important town of Novogrod, about ten miles west of Lomza, in Northern Poland, was reported in the Soviet communiqué, which also stated that in Northern Transylvania Russian troops, co-operating with Rumanian troops, occupied the town of Georgent and Prait and 60 other inhabited localities.

In addition to the threat to the Polish capital, three other main threats are developing: Beyond Lomza (80 miles north of Warsaw), south of the East Prussian border; in the Carpathians, where Soviet patrols are reported to have crossed into Czechoslovakia; and, through Western Transylvania, towards Hungary.

ARCTIC ATTACK

Reuter's Special Correspondent in Moscow reports that Russian forces on vital sectors across Poland from East Prussia to the Carpathians—still further south-east—are moving forward impatient to drive farther west before the September rains.

The Germans have withdrawn units from the battle inside Slovakia to meet the Red Army's threat on the Carpathian frontier.

Strong groups of Czechoslovak partisans are attacking German communications through Eastern Slovakia—just ahead of the Red Army troops, which are believed to have crossed the Carpathian frontier from Poland—reported last night's communiqué from the Commander-in-Chief of the Czechoslovak Forces of the Interior.

Colonel von Olberg, German News Agency military correspondent, last night said that on the Kandalaksha front in Northern Finland the Russians are attacking the withdrawing German troops on a broad front.—(Reuter.)

British M.P.s Want More Help For Poles

SIXTEEN M.P.s, in a statement yesterday, appealed for more help for the Poles and declared that it should be known beyond doubt what limitations, if any, have been imposed upon the British Government's activities.

"We believe," says the statement, "that even now the British people is not fully aware of the extent of the suffering and destruction which Poland is enduring in these days, particularly since the Warsaw rising began on August 1st.

"We appreciate that the public cannot as yet have detailed and up-to-date information of what our Government has done or could have done. We desire most deeply and strongly that every possible assistance should be given to the Poles."

LABOUR MESSAGE

In a message to the workers of Warsaw, the Emergency Council of the International Federation of Trades Unions in London yesterday said:

"It is our ardent hope that the near future will bring complete liberation of Warsaw and the early establishment of a free and democratic Poland.

"The solid front which has been consistently offered by the Polish workers against collaboration with the enemy, and their determination to maintain at least the nucleus of their free institutions, culminating in their open struggle, has enhanced still further the honourable name of Poland. The world of free labour awaits your presence in its counsels."

Two Soviet republics and the Polish National Committee have agreed that Poles living in the Ukraine and White Russia may voluntarily go to Poland, and Ukrainians and White Russians living in Poland may move to the Soviet Union.

It is expected that the difficulties created by the attitude of General Sosnkowski, the Polish Commander-in-Chief, will be resolved this week, says the Press Association Diplomatic Correspondent. If he does not tender his resignation the Polish Government in London will call upon the President of the Polish Republic to dismiss him. The situation, the correspondent gathers, is not to be allowed to drift further.

Prospects of agreement between the Polish Government and the National Committee of Polish Liberation are not improved by the announcement from Lublin that M. Bierut has assumed the functions of President of the Polish Republic in accordance, it is said, with the Polish 1921 Constitution.

Polish circles in London stated last night: "That Constitution provided that in case of vacancy in the Presidency, the Speaker or Chairman of the Diet should act as President pro tem." As there is no Parliament now, the Lublin Liberation Committee argues that its place is being taken by the so-called "Home National Council," of which M. Bierut is chairman. He is thus said to be legally entitled to act as President.

This move indicates an attempt to create a self-appointed Polish Government in Warsaw as soon as the Red Army enters it, and "the juggling with the 1921 Constitution aims at undermining the legal basis of the Polish President and Government in London."

Exception is also taken by the Poles in London to the agreements concluded between the National Council and certain Soviet States relating to transfers of population.

British and German Firms Charged

A Federal Grand Jury in San Francisco yesterday indicted several British and German-owned companies on charges that they monopolised the world supply of borax—a strategic war chemical—in a cartel described by the Government attorneys as "one of the most ruthless and complete in anti-trust division annals."

Wealthy London, New York and California business men were named defendants, together with the companies they controlled—Borax Consolidated, Ltd., of London; American Potash and Chemical Corporation, operating from New York headquarters, and their subsidiaries exploiting the British deposits of crude and sodium borates.—(Reuter.)

German Convoy Hit By Aircraft

The British Admiralty announced last night that British naval aircraft, operating from the aircraft-carrier Furious and the escort carrier Trumpeter, attacked, with cannon-fire, a medium-size German supply ship and three escorting mine-sweepers off Statlandet, Norway, on Tuesday.

All the German ships were hit repeatedly, and one of the escort vessels blew up and sank. When last seen, the remaining ships were stopped and damaged.

The aircraft-carriers were escorted by the cruiser Devonshire and a number of destroyers. One Seafire plane is missing.

Died on Way to Theatre

Mr. Reginald Leaney, Queen street, Warrenpoint, Co. Down, became ill when entering the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, last night. He was removed to Mercer's Hospital, where life was found to be extinct.

Berlin Bombed By Night

Berlin was again attacked on Wednesday night by aircraft of R.A.F. Bomber Command, two of which are missing, a British Air Ministry report stated yesterday.

The force consisted of Mosquitos, and it was the fourth night in succession that the Mosquitos had attacked the German capital.

A long procession of four-engined bombers flew out from England across the North Sea in the direction of Germany early last night, the Press Association stated.

R.A.F. heavy bombers on Wednesday night bombed Eleusis and Kalamaki aerodromes, near Athens, formerly used by the Germans for transport planes linking garrisons in Greece and the Aegean, says Reuter's Special Correspondent at Allied Headquarters, Mediterranean. One transport burst into flames.

Fortresses flying from Russia to Italy reported hits on the Doisgyor ordnance factory, 80 miles north-east of Budapest. Other heavies striking at German rail junctions in central Europe hit the Brutkny yards in Czechoslovakia, 65 miles south of Osweicim, where the lines from southern Czechoslovakia connect with the Budapest and German lines.

Kildare Murder Mystery

The little village of Carbury, Co. Kildare, was yesterday seething with excitement, as Civic Guards interrogated everybody living in and around the village as to the movements of Patrick Fagan (63), ex-postman, of Ballinderry, near Carbury, which is five miles from Edenderry. No arrest has yet been made. At the adjourned inquest medical evidence put the time of Fagan's death as about Saturday; but a girl told the police that she had seen Fagan at his door at 12.30 p.m. on Monday. An interrogation of a cyclist who passed Fagan's lonely cottage late on Saturday night led nowhere.

It is now known that robbery was the motive for the killing. It is stated that Fagan carried a considerable amount of money around on his person. The blood-spattered walls gave evidence of the struggle Fagan put up for his life. Dr. J. McGrath, State Pathologist, at the inquest, stated that Fagan had been struck no less than 26 times on his head.

Part of a broken iron bar used to support a window in Fagan's cottage was found beside the body, and the other part at the front of the house. The body was found at the rear of the house, where the windows were broken and the grass around the door was beaten down.

Timber Salvage Runs Berlin Buses

Timber salvaged from bombed houses in Berlin is being transformed into producer gas for buses and cars, and charcoal kilns are being operated in the streets, according to the German News Agency, says Reuter.

GOEBBELS—"WE WILL STAND AND FIGHT"

DR. GOEBBELS, writing in this week's issue of Das Reich, states:—

"Our path now leads through the vale of grief.

"It was not so much the valour of our troops which allowed us to penetrate deeply into enemy territory during the first three years of this war.

"It was, rather, the luck of the draw—and it was to be expected that it would not favour us for ever.

"But we are not allowing ourselves to be mesmerised by the enemy's successes. We are not rabbits, waiting without a stir, without a move of resistance, to be devoured by the serpents.

"Now we know where we stand. We are firmly resolved to make use of any means for the defence of our country and its life, and never, never, even in our most secret thoughts, contemplate a cowardly capitulation.

"We are proud to have mastered so far all crises in this war, and nobody can make us falter in our belief that we shall master also the crises of the future.

"We have not picked and chosen the time in which to live and do our duty. But since this is our time we have one ardent desire, and that is—to prove ourselves, to give to our contemporaries and those who come after us a shining example of staying power and endurance.

"Wherever we are we will stand and fight. The people's war has become the cause of the whole nation, from the Fuehrer to the last woman and the last child. They all are prepared, and have set their teeth.

"The world of which we dream will be born with unimaginable travail and pain. Whatever the cost, we shall not end this war until victory is won. We shall wage a people's war with ever-changing methods."

NEW DIVISIONS

Berlin radio stated that, in an interview given to the correspondent of the Japanese newspaper, Mai-Nichi, Dr. Goebbels said: "When I took over my new appointment as Trustee for Total Mobilisation in mid-August, Keitel came to me and said: 'By the end of August I must have so and so many new divisions.'

"'You'll get them,' I replied, "and at the end of the month the divisions were ready.

"In September I shall have to furnish as many divisions again, and I'll do it again."

Dr. Goebbels also told the Japanese correspondent: "Take it from me that our stocks of raw material are assured for a long time to come.

"Allied air attacks have given us many a headache, but I think we can solve these difficulties by increased fighter production. Our air defences are geared to the highest peak, and we shall not have to suffer such heavy attacks as those of last autumn and winter again."

"As the thunder of enemy cannon approaches the West Wall," said a German war reporter on the German Forces radio last night, "the forces in the rear are throwing their all into the defence of our western frontier. New formations are coming up, manning the defence zone and stopping the gaps. Others are held ready in the depth of our positions.

"Strong formations of the 1st U.S. Army are attacking in the direction of Aachen along the Liège-Aachen railway line. They were stopped by counter-attacks."

Colonel Whitney Escapes

Colonel John Hay ("Jock") Whitney, the American millionaire racehorse owner, who was taken prisoner by the Germans in southern France on August 21st, has returned to his headquarters after escaping from a moving train.

Whitney, who is 40, was a Staff Officer of the Mediterranean Air Force when he was captured while on an Air Force assignment in the Marseilles region.

One of the world's wealthiest men he has raced in England for many years. He married Mrs. Betsey Cushing Roosevelt, former wife of Mr. James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son, in March, 1942.

Colonel Whitney, with another U.S. colonel, escaped by jumping from a train near Gray, north-west of Dijon.—(Reuter.)

French Fleet Steams Home

The French battle fleet steamed into Toulon, its home port, yesterday, through the wreckage of its sister ships, scuttled and bombed in the harbour less than two years ago. The port is being rapidly re-opened for shipping.

The cruiser, Georges Leygues, with flags and pennants flying, entered Toulon for the first time in four years, with the Chief of Staff, Admiral Andre le Monnier, on the bridge, and the battleship Lorraine and eight other cruisers and destroyers following.—(Reuter.)

Killed in Train Collision.—Twenty-five people were killed and sixty-five injured in a head-on train collision near Terre Haute, Indiana, yesterday. There was heavy fog at the time.—(Reuter.)

G.S.R. Stocks Report Will Soon Be Ready

The final draft of the G.S.R. Stocks Tribunal's report has now been approved, and the copy which is to be presented to the Minister for Industry and Commerce is at the moment being prepared by a confidential typist. The work is likely to be completed by to-morrow or Monday, after which the report will be presented to the three members of the Tribunal for their signatures. Of a fairly comprehensive nature, it is expected to extend to about seventy foolscap pages, and to be ready for handing to Mr. Sean Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce, towards the end of next week.

The Tribunal, which consisted of Mr. Justice Overend, K.C.; Judge Cahir Davitt and Judge Barra O Briain, was appointed in December, 1943, and, between then and the middle of last June, held numerous sittings to investigate alleged improper speculation on the Dublin Stock Exchange.

The Aga Khan Pays 12,500 Gns. For a Hyperion Yearling

A NEW war-time record price for a yearling was set up at Newmarket yesterday, when the Sledmere Stud's colt by Hyperion, out of Queen Christina, was sold for 12,500 guineas to Mr. Frank Butters on behalf of H.H. Aga Khan.

The previous best war-time figure was 8,200 guineas for Hyderabad in 1941, and Hyder Ali in 1942. The peace-time record for a yearling sold at a public auction is the 15,000 guineas paid by Miss Dorothy Paget in 1936 for the Fairway-Golden Hair colt, subsequently named Colonel Payne.

The aggregate for the day's sale was 251,400 guineas for 183 lots. The total for the two days was 345,150 guineas for 306 lots, a new record war-time average of 1,127 guineas.

TO-MORROW'S "Irish Field" will contain complete details of all the principal lots.

The Anglo-Irish Bloodstock Agency, acting on behalf of an owner in Britain, whose name, it is said, could not be divulged, gave 9,300 guineas for a colt by Fairway, out of Correa, from the Swynford Paddocks Stud.

The five yearlings from the Swinford Paddocks Stud realised a total of 19,010 guineas, F. Armstrong buying for the Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda, paid 5,000 guineas for a colt by Fairway, out of Epons.

The remarkable aggregate of 17,400 guineas was obtained for the four yearlings sent from the Friarings Stud, which is owned by Sir Eric Ohlson. They included a colt by Hyperion, out of Olein, which Frank Butters bought on behalf of the Aga Khan for 6,700 guineas; a filly by Bois Roussel—Embouche, Major L. B. Holliday, 5,100 guineas, and World Radio, a colt by Mieuxce—Renate, W. Earl, 3,700 guineas. Olein was sold in 1942 for 17,000 guineas.

RAISED IN CO. MEATH

The two highest priced yearlings at the sales on Wednesday—Mrs. E. Esmonde's f. by Solario—Silver Fox II, 5,800 guineas, and f. by Mieuxce—Dolce II, 4,600 guineas—were prepared at Stackallen House, Navan, owned by Gilbert King and sent over in April.

Why you should Condition your dog EVERY DAY

Nature originally intended that every dog should lead an active outdoor life. But since dogs have become 'domestic animals,' they usually get less exercise than they really need. Moreover, they are fed on cooked and prepared foods which are not a dog's natural diet. It is these handicaps that make the 'home dog' liable to listlessness, excessive scratching, loose coat, and other symptoms of loss of condition.

To help restore your dog's condition, give Bob Martin's Condition Powders. You'll soon see a wonderful improvement in his health and spirits. But the wisest plan is to prevent ill-health by regular conditioning with Bob Martin's—one a day. This simple daily care will keep your dog always fit, friendly and happy. Start conditioning to-day. In packets of 9 for 6d., 21 for 1/-, from all chemists and corn merchants.

Four Winners For M. Wing

OUTSTANDING feature of an eventful day's racing at the Curragh yesterday was the accomplishment of M. Wing in riding four winners from five mounts. Two of Wing's winners were trained by M. C. Collins for Mr. Joseph McGrath, and they included Mafosta, who got the verdict over Seraglio in the coveted Anglesey Stakes by a short head. Many, in fact, had thought that the pair had run a dead-heat so close had the issue been between them throughout the last furlong.

Mr. McGrath's other two years old, Bazooka, put up an exceptionally fine performance by conceding weight all round in the Lumville Nursery, in which backers of the colt on the Tote got a welcome surprise, the dividend representing odds of 50½ to 1.

H. Holmes won the Turf Club Handicap and the J. T. Rogers Memorial Cup, and both winners were the medium of strong support, especially Sporran, who always had the measure of the opposition.

There was a turn-up in the Pollardstown Plate, in which the complete outsider, Dundela, well ridden by W. Howard, got the better of the joint favourite, Hello Peter, by a neck.

FURTHER RECOVERY IN INDUSTRIALS

The feature of the London Stock Markets yesterday was the good all-round recovery in Industrial Equities, most of which finished at the best of the day, after early dullness.

Bargain-hunting in Home Rails on the high yields was reported. The recent dullness of European Bonds was accentuated by news of the Soviets' reparation terms for Rumania.

Tobaccos were strong on investment support, especially Imperials at 7¹¹⁄₃₂, up ⅛. A big order in "Emmies" produced a gain of 1/3 to 33s. 9d. Boots 55s. led the rise in Stores.

Dealers reported that nervous selling of Calcutta Tramways (62s. 9d., down 4s. 3d.) was all by small holders.

Diamond shares revived, with the market still looking firm at the close. Gains of about 2s. were scored by Anglo Trust at 47s. 6d. and Cons. Diamonds at 33s. 6d.

KAFFIRS ERRATIC

The South African market followed an erratic course, with the underlying tendency apparently towards a lower level. Some of the speculative positions built up by professionals in recent weeks were being lightened before the turn of the quarter. Most changes were downwards. As on the previous day there were some bright exceptions. These included South African Townships (28s. 9d., up 9d.) and Western Holdings (2⅞, up ⅛) on the coming flotation by Anglo-American Townships of their Orange Free State interests in one subsidiary.

On the other hand, Johannesburg selling of African and European, a large block of which will probably pass to the new company, depressed the price ⅛ to 5¼, and Anglo-American lost ⅛ at 4⅞. Lydenburg were also ⅛ lower at 2⅞.

CABLE DIVIDEND

Maintenance of the interim dividend on British Insulated Cables Ord. at 5 p.c. for the year ending on December 31st next is a reminder of the popularity of shares in the cable manufacturing group. This company, as well as others in the industry, can be held out as an example of consistent dividend payments among Industrial Equities.

The interim has been 5 p.c. for many years, and, in fact, the final dividend of 10 p.c., and cash bonus of 5 p.c. for 12 months, has been the same since 1934, despite a scrip bonus of 20 p.c. at the end of 1936. The £1 Ord. units are about 106/3, and yield little more than £3 15/- p.c., less tax, but this return is attractive to many in view of the prospects for the industry following the war.

Furniture manufacturing companies should be among the busiest industrial concerns when normal conditions return. The fantastic prices which have been paid for all kinds of house furnishing, both new and second-hand, indicate the shortage that exists. Trading conditions throughout the war years have been difficult, but the companies have managed to maintain their position by the manufacture of products required by the Government for national purposes, and of utility furniture.

Wales, Ltd., the Birmingham company, is one of those designated for the manufacture of utility furniture and equipment, and its turnover has been well maintained. Before the war it was paying dividends of 15 p.c. The rate was reduced to 10 p.c. for 1940, but in the two following years was increased to 12½ p.c. This rate is being maintained for the year to December 31st last, with a final of 7½ p.c. An interim of 5 p.c. for the current year is also announced.

I.C.I. DIVIDEND

An interim dividend of 3 p.c. on the £50,401,861 Ord. capital is again being paid by Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., in respect of the year to December 31st next.

This is the eighth year in succession for which an interim at this rate has been paid, and, except for 1937, when the final was 5½ p.c., the total distribution in each year has been brought up to 8 p.c., with a final of 5 p.c.

The 1943 accounts showed that, as a result of rising costs not being matched by increases in prices, the total of combined gross income for the year was down from £22,253,000 to £18,704,627. Owing to the cushion provided by a reduction in the charge for taxation at £6,050,682 (against £9,720,172), the group's net income was up from £6,873,205 to £7,042,172.

GODFREY PHILLIPS

Godfrey Phillips, the tobacco manufacturers, announce an interim dividend on account of the year ending December 31st of 2½ p.c., less tax. This payment has been made yearly for over ten years, and for the past five years has been followed by a final dividend of 7½ p.c. Last year, in addition, a bonus of 2½ p.c. was paid, making a total of 12½ p.c. for 1943.

CONVICTIONS IN GALWAY PRICE CONTROL CASE

THE Special Criminal Court, sitting at Collins Barracks, Dublin, yesterday, fixed Wednesday next for judgment in the case in which Richard H. O'Toole, shopkeeper, Lettermore, Co. Galway, and Peter Folan, an assistant, are charged with a series of breaches of the Prices Control Regulations.

Thomas Walsh, another assistant, who had pleaded guilty to charges of aiding and abetting O'Toole in overcharging 2d. on a lb. of butter and ½d. on a box of matches, was yesterday given the benefit of the Probation Act and discharged.

Mr. Sean McBride, S.C., who, with Mr. P O'Malley (instructed by Messrs. J. C. Conroy and Sons), defended, submitted a schedule to the Court which showed that O'Toole had pleaded guilty to 40 counts and Folan to 34. They were each convicted by the Court on five counts and the State entered a nolle prosequi against each on 13 counts. Counsel said that the amount of the overcharges was small, totalling only approximately £55, covering all credit transactions over a period of two years. All those transactions were recorded on the books, which went to show that neither O'Toole nor Folan appreciated what they were doing.

Yesterday O'Toole pleaded guilty to three charges of selling cigarettes at an excessive price—½d. on ten and 1d. on twenty—and Folan guilty to aiding and abetting.

Mr. G. D. Murnaghan, S.C., who, with Mr. A. O Cuiv (instructed by Mr. R. P. Humphries, Chief State Solicitor's Office), prosecuted, said that in view of the pleas he would enter a nolle prosequi in charges in connection with flour, sugar, bluestone, washing soda and batteries. That left five charges concerning the defacement of the price brand on boots to be dealt with.

In the course of the search of O'Toole's premises at Lettermore, ... said Mr. Murnaghan, a number of pairs of boots—five nailed and one not nailed—were found. Examination showed that the nails had been put in in such a way as to deface the price marks, and on one pair there were signs of defacing.

The Court gave a direction in respect of two of the charges.

Mr. McBride said there was no defacement of the price on the boots.

ALLEGED FRAUD ON COUNTRY TRADERS

JOSEPH HAROLD GRIFFIN, trading as Carysfort Manufacturing Company, City Quay, Dublin, who was charged before District Justice McCann in Dublin yesterday with having obtained money from various people by pretending that a substance which he was stated to have sold to them was genuine sulphate of ammonia, was returned for trial, on bail.

He was alleged to have received £330 from John C. Spelman, merchant, Gort, Co. Galway; to have attempted to obtain £108 from John Baggot, general merchant, Main street, Abbeyleix; to have obtained £224 and £423 from Thomas Connolly, trading as Michael Connolly and Son, Muine Bheag; £110 from John Staunton, trading as Edward Staunton and Sons, Freshford, Co. Kilkenny, and £550 from Frank Latham, trading as Produce Marketing Co., Crane lane, Dublin.

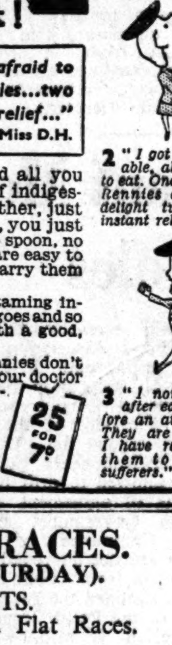

It was stated in evidence that the substance when analysed for the purchasers was found to be chiefly common salt.

Mr. J. J. Devlin (instructed by Messrs. Mangan and Hughes), who appeared for Griffin, said that all the money involved had been refunded.

Mr. Andreas O'Keeffe (instructed by Mr. J. J. Lysaght, Chief State Solicitor's Office) prosecuted.

BENCH WARRANT

The District Justice issued a warrant for the arrest of Bernard J. Skelly, trading as State Products Corporation, Clarinda Park, West, Dun Laoghaire, who did not attend, to answer charges of having obtained £200 10/- from Kieran Kelly, merchant, Main street, Rathdowney, Laois, by pretending that a mixture that he was alleged to have sold to him was genuine sulphate of ammonia, and of having obtained £105 from John Baggot, Main street, Abbeyleix, by pretending that he intended to supply him with 5 cwt. of soap and 2 cwt. of swede turnip seed.

Brewing Industry Short of Labour

At yesterday's London meeting of Arthur Guinness Son & Co., the Chairman, the Earl of Iveagh, after having paid a tribute to the memory of Sir Haldane Porter, who died in Dublin on Tuesday last, referred to the fact that the beer duty still stands at more than 3½ times the rate before the present war, and is now nearly 37 times the rate before the last war. Our trade, he said, is good, but the brewing industry is short of labour, especially in malting and bottling. Many of our customers could take double their present quota from us, if they had sufficient labour to bottle it. We are, of course, selling what we can on draught, but the supply of casks is strictly limited owing to transport difficulties. It is not easy to get them back as quickly as we should like.

Sharp Rises In Local Issues

THERE was a slight improvement in trading on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and sentiment was better. A few Irish Industrials came in for good support, and recorded strength. Home Rails were again dull in places, but British Industrials staged a sharp recovery in the late dealings.

Hely's Ord. were in keen demand, and spurted 6s. to 71s.; while T. and C. Martin Ord. advanced 3s. to 59s. McEnnery Bros. Pref. gained 1s. at 51s., but Prices Tailors (Ireland) Pref. eased to 20s. and Pye (Ireland) Ord. to 9s. 9d.

Alliance Gas Ord. were sold freely, and fell to 24/-, while Carroll Pref. declined to 27/9, and Grand Canal Pref. dipped to 122/6. Yam Seng Rubbers shaded off to 1/8.

Home Rails inclined lower. Great Northern Guar. fell 1½ points to 63½, and Great Southern Guar. eased to 72. Dublin Transport issues were the turn easier.

Home Funds held steady, and Third National Loan made headway to 109⅝. 3½ p.c. War Loan improved to 104 7/16.

In Banks, Nationals shaded off to 49/9. Guinness units, on quiet buying, firmed up to 133/6.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Thursday.—Prices were lower at the opening of the Stock Exchange, but trading was fairly active. The market continued to give ground during the morning, although mild resistance was evident. The close was barely steady. The turnover of 728,000 shares comprised 862 issues, of which 140 advanced and 312 declined.—

FAIRS

MULLINGAR NEW FAIR will be held on TUESDAY, THE 19th SEPTEMBER.

£200,000,000—THE VALUE OF DUBLIN'S BUILDINGS

Although the total number of fire calls dealt with annually by the Dublin Fire Brigade has increased considerably, owing to the use of emergency fuels and other emergency aspects, there has been a decrease in the number of fires which can be attributed to carelessness, and in the number of malicious false alarms. In addition, the proportion of serious fires to small fires has also decreased, while the proportionate number of small fires dealt with by local fire squads before or soon after the arrival of the Brigade, has increased.

These and other interesting facts were given by Major J. J. Comerford, Chief Superintendent, Dublin Fire Brigade, in the Mansion House, Dublin, yesterday, when he spoke on "Aspects of Local Fire Prevention and Training." He was addressing chairmen and other members of business premises fire prevention groups.

Major Comerford attributed these "very definite improvements" to the fact that the people have become more fire conscious which, he said, could largely be attributed to the work and training of local fire parties.

The value of Dublins' buildings, the Chief Superintendent said, is now well over £200,000,000. Stocks vary to such an extent that no accurate figure can be given, but at least several hundred million pounds' worth of property is in direct risk in city fires. During the past five years the total fire loss in insured property was approximately £620,000, while the value of property directly in risk in these fires was nearly £11,000,000.

Of 1,091 fire calls received last year, only 112 were attributable to carelessness, and only 132 were malicious false alarms.

Major Comerford concluded by suggesting that, even after the present emergency, they should consider maintaining, on a voluntary basis, essential portions of the local fire prevention organisation which had been established.

SALE OF ANTIQUES

The auction of the property of the Marchioness of Headfort, which is to be conducted at the Commercial Buildings, Dame street, Dublin, by Messrs. Stokes and Quirke, on next Tuesday and the following days, promises bright bidding from collectors.

Most of the contents of the Chinese drawingroom, including two antique screens, dating from the K'ang-Hsi period of 1662-1722, will be offered. One, an antique Coromandel, has designs of ancient legends, with numerous figures, lake and terrace scenes, and the sacred flowers of China. An Imperial K'ang rug, brought from the palace at Peking after the fall of the dynasty in the early part of the eighteenth century; a Sung Dynasty painting, and a fine embroidered Canton shawl are also among the items. A pair of George the First period Irish cast table candlesticks, adapted for electric light, with decorated floral repousse work; a set of four old silver candlesticks, columned on square bases, believed to be by Emick Romer, about 1765, and some fine specimens of fine old Irish glassware, dating from the eighteenth century, are also to be sold.

SUCCESS OF SYMPHONY CONCERTS

Radio Eireann's report for 1943 narrates a record of achievement in the various branches of entertainment. Dealing with the successful symphony concerts, the report states that it was observed that the most successful, from the box office viewpoint, were those in which visiting soloists appeared, but the concerts in which local artists were presented were very well supported.

The report states that question time still remained the peak point of radio interest. Forty-one of the forty-seven programmes were relayed from provincial centres, and the demand from all over the country had become an embarrassment.

L.S.F. FIELD DAY AT DALYMOUNT PARK

Dalymount Park, Dublin, will be the venue for the Field Day to be held next Sunday by the "D" District Command and groups of the L.S.F. There will be a parade, review and march past after inspection by Chief Superintendent Casserly, Civic Guards. The programme will also include competitive drill tests, sporting events and band music. The proceeds will be devoted to the welfare fund.

RESURGENT FRANCE

During the last few days, General de Gaulle has announced the names of the members of his new Cabinet, set up in Paris to replace the National Committee, which formerly sat in Algiers. Including the General himself, who is described as President of the Council, there are twenty-two Ministers in all. Nine of those who were on the Algiers Committee have been dropped. The new Government includes representatives of all the political parties in France, with the exception of the extreme Right. The names of two Communists figure in the list. Manifestly, General de Gaulle realises the extreme delicacy of his position. Prominent among his new Ministers are men who remained in France throughout the German occupation and took an active part in the so-called "underground" resistance movement. Monsieur Bidault, for example, has become Foreign Minister, replacing Monsieur Massigli, who probably will go as Ambassador to London. Monsieur Bidault for a time was Chairman of the National Council of Resistance inside France. Another of the new Ministers is Monsieur Jeanneney, the octogenarian President of the French Senate, who remained in France during the last four years, and, although his age prevented him from taking an active part in the resistance movement, wrote, in company with Monsieur Herriot, strong letters to Marshal Pétain protesting against any kind of collaboration with the Germans. The new Government, while obviously more representative than the Algiers Committee, which, in the nature of things, was composed mainly of men who had been outside France since the armistice, is admittedly a temporary and, in some respects, a makeshift administration. In a broadcast on Tuesday, General de Gaulle, who seems to be acting with admirable circumspection, promised the French people that general elections would be held immediately after the freeing of the whole country and the return to their homes of the war prisoners. In the meantime, the new Government, presumably, will continue to carry on the normal business of the country, provoking as little controversy as possible. Quite a remarkable feature of the last few weeks has been the way in which France's political activity has awakened again after four years of enforced quiescence. Once more the Paris kiosks are full of daily newspapers, some of which have been appearing surreptitiously throughout the German occupation. Some of these newspapers already have begun to criticise General de Gaulle's new Cabinet on the ground that it is a Government of compromise. One of them declares that what France needs is "a Government which will cleanse, rebuild and act." Others are more sympathetic, describing the Cabinet as a "Government of unanimity." Most of them agree that the French State proclaimed by Marshal Pétain is a thing of the past. Legally, they argue, the Republic never has ceased to exist.

General de Gaulle has a difficult job. Like Agag, he must walk delicately if he is to secure and retain the confidence of the French people, who have had some trying experiences during the last four years, and at the same time to keep on good terms with the British and Americans. During the period of the shadow Cabinet in London, even before General de Gaulle transferred his headquarters to Algiers, there was a widespread belief that he was inclined to be rather dictatorial in his methods, impatient of criticism, and, generally, imbued with the instincts of a soldier rather than with those of a statesman. It is an open secret—revealed more than once by Mr. Churchill—that he differed very often from the British, and even more often from the Americans. Conditions now are generally more satisfactory. The drastic Press law that was prepared in Algiers has been set aside, now that General de Gaulle and his colleagues actually are operating on French soil. Relations between the President of the Council on the one hand, and the British and American Governments on the other, have improved almost beyond recognition. Nobody outside France can hope to appreciate the difficulty of the problems which any Government based, as a French Government in existing circumstances must be based, upon the choice of an individual or group of individuals, rather than upon the freely expressed wishes of the nation. Furthermore, the fact that General Eisenhower holds himself responsible for the military security of those parts of France from which the Germans have been expelled, cannot but exercise a powerful influence upon the course of events. Naturally, passions are running high. At the beginning there were some painful excesses in the treatment of those who, to a greater or less degree, had "collaborated" with the Germans during the long occupation, and for a time there was a danger of a general night of long knives. Happily, that danger seems to have become less acute. In those parts of the country in which the new Government's writ runs, life is beginning gradually to return to its normal ways. The economic situation still is difficult. Paris is feeling the pinch of food shortage, and the disorganisation of the national transport system has confronted the Government with some serious problems. General de Gaulle's declared aim, which must be the aim of all true patriots, is to unite the people of France, and to re-create a nation which shall be placed in a position to exert its rightful and traditional influence in European and world affairs. The tragedy of the last four years must be regarded merely as an episode in French history. A resurgent France will have a big part to play in the re-building of European civilisation. Whatever may be the outcome of the war, whatever may be the character of the terms on which the structure of world peace will be based, France, by virtue of her history, as well as of her population and geographical position, must remain a great Power. Now that she has a Government of her own, she can face the future with some confidence.

FRANCE'S TRIALS NEAR END

GENERAL DE GAULLE, addressing a crowd of 30,000 from the balcony of the Town Hall at Lyons yesterday, said: "This great city is to-day covered with wounds. We have all badly suffered—you here, and all of us—for the benefit of France, but the hope of all of us is that this suffering should not have been in vain. This time, at least, all the suffering, all the struggling, and the final victory must become fruit.

"The hope of France is for a better future, but we know very well that it is not mere words that repair injustices, that words cannot take the place of deeds. We know that a great and hard national effort is needed—an effort of toil, purge and social justice, which we shall carry out, so that France shall reach that goal. We also know that this effort can only be carried out in full order, in the face of the enemy whom we are going to beat, and before the eyes of our Allies, who are watching us. We are going to show them how the French nation will retrieve itself, that the Republic is the only true order, and that the Government of the Republic is serving the country.

"Our trials, though they are not yet over, are, I believe, nearing their end. But, whatever may still be in store for us, we will carry on until that end is reached, so that on the last day a united France shall be able to say to her friends: 'I am one of your friends, I am one of the victors. I am demanding my due place—which I have well deserved—for the benefit of mankind.'"—(Reuter.)

General Valin, Chief of the French Air Staff, has been appointed temporary Commander of the Paris Air Region, said French National Radio last night.

SHAW LAYS CLAIM AS SHAKESPEARE'S HEIR

Mr. Bernard Shaw, in a letter to Mr. John H. Bird, of Stratford-on-Avon, claims to be "Shakespeare's heir and successor."

Talks on Shakespeare's home town were given by Mr. Bird to members of the Allied forces, and a Canadian soldier asked—"What was the date of Mr. Shaw's conversion to Shakespeare?"

The inquiry was sent to Mr. Shaw, who replied: "There has been no conversion. My estimate of Shakespeare has never changed. Fifty years ago, as a critic, I had to smash the ridiculous bardolatry of people who had never read him as I had read him in my childhood; in contrast, I had to show that as an artist biologist, specialising in human nature, he was a child in comparison with Ibsen, and as a philosopher with Goethe. But when his merits were in question I did justice to him, and I have taken myself seriously as his heir and successor."

LINEN MILLS TO MAKE RAYON IN NORTH

An exhibition of rayon manufactured in Northern Ireland was opened in Belfast yesterday. The new fabrics are remarkable for wear, range, beauty and utility. At a mannequin parade, all types of dresses, from women's underclothes to gloves and handbags, were exhibited.

Some authorities contend that in future, linen, owing to the high cost of production, will fall into the category of luxuries, and that the majority of mills in Northern Ireland must switch over to the manufacture of rayon fabrics. The change will not be difficult. Indeed, in many cases it has been made already.

The Prime Minister, Sir Basil Brooke, at the opening of the exhibition, stressed the fact that the new industry was not in competition with the linen industry, but was an adjunct to it, and would ensure employment for many workers.

STORING THE APPLE CROP

By G. O. SHERRARD.

THE present year will be remembered by gardeners for its apple crop; almost everywhere in the country the trees are laden with fruit. To ascertain the correct time to gather the fruit, twist an apple gently on its stalk; if it comes off in the hand it is fit to pick. If picked too early the fruit will shrivel in store; if allowed to hang on the tree until the green colour becomes yellow its life in store will be short. Fruit for storing should be handled with the greatest care—treated, indeed, as eggs rather than apples. The modern method of picking directly into an orchard box and transferring the box to the store without disturbance has much to commend it. Box-makers in Ireland produce a standard orchard box, holding about 40lb. of fruit and fitted with side-pieces which facilitate handling. These are stacked on top of one another in the store, and in this way take up little room. The apples need not be spaced out singly on shelves, as in this way they usually get too much air and are inclined to shrivel.

The store itself should be such that a uniform temperature of about 36 degrees can be maintained in it throughout the winter. This implies thick walls to prevent fluctuations of temperature. The cellar of an old country house makes an admirable fruit room, and, if orchard boxes are not used, the apples can be spread on a layer of straw on the floor to a depth of 18 inches if necessary. During the first few days in the store there should be a fair amount of ventilation; but after this very little should be given, the amount depending on the variety of apple. The store should be kept dark, and a stone or earthen floor is preferable to a wooden one.

TEMPERATURE

Knowledge of the conditions under which apples store best has been greatly extended in recent years by the work of Dr. F. Kidd and Dr. C. West in England. They have shown that varieties differ considerably in storage requirements. Thus Bramley's Seedling keeps best at a temperature of 40 degrees F., and in an atmosphere containing 8 to 10 per cent. carbon dioxide and 13 to 11 per cent. oxygen; that is to say, under conditions of low ventilation, while Newton Wonder, Annie Elizabeth and Blenheim Orange store best in ordinary air without carbon dioxide and at a temperature of 35 to 37 degrees F. They discovered that ripening apples gave off volatile substances which affected the keeping qualities of later maturing kinds. Early and late apples should not, therefore, be put in the same store. It also was found that, under conditions of restricted ventilation, apples need to be wrapped in paper impregnated with odourless mineral oil. The work of these scientists has culminated in the development of the refrigerated gas store where Bramley's Seedling can be kept in perfect condition until June.

CONTRACT BRIDGE AT KILLARNEY

As anticipated, the first annual Autumn Bridge Congress at Killarney a week ago proved to be one of the most enjoyable bridge functions ever held in this country.

The local county representatives carried off all the honours of the Congress by winning three of the four major tournaments, and were only beaten on the break of a tie in the fourth. Early on Mr. J. M. O'Sullivan's Tralee team (Mr. and Mrs. J. M. O'Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Quinlan) found little difficulty in winning the Munster team-of-four event, and only just failed in the open test. This latter competition provided one of the closest finishes imaginable, for, with only two sets of boards to be played, any one of six teams could have secured the top position. Actually Mr. O'Sullivan's team and Mr. C. J. Gilgunn's Galway team (Messrs. C. J. Gilgunn, P. J. Gallagher, M. Gallagher and J. Curran) tied with 71 points each, and in the play-off of an additional set of boards, the Westerners were successful with a margin of 3 points.

The Galway team, possibly a little nervous in facing Dublin players with established reputations, started badly, and at the half-way stage were as low as 12th place, but settling down later they had an exceptionally high average during the second half, which enabled them to out-distance all opposition with the exception of Mr. O'Sullivan's team. Certainly, more will be heard from this team, provided further opportunity arises to test their skill against opposition of established players.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Keating returned to Tralee with an armful of trophies, having won both the Munster Pairs and the Open Pairs Championships. Their dual win was made possible by sound bidding and careful play.

Dublin players, which included a large scattering of internationals, returned without figuring successfully in any of the major events. They were not empty-handed, however, as a large number collected prizes for their performances in the several Mitchell and Howell Pairs competitions. Whether they won or not, all were unanimous as to the pleasant time they had, and the wonderful hospitality extended to them in Kerry. They intend to make the trip again next year.

The Congress concluded on Sunday night with a dinner, followed by a dance, at which there were over 250 guests. A presentation of prizes for both the bridge and golfing competitions was made to the winning competitors by Mrs. T. P. Magnier.

JAIL FOR DEPORTEE

Robert Joseph Sutcliffe, trawler skipper, a native of Chester, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment by District Justice Hannan in Dublin yesterday for having failed to remain out of the State following a deportation order made against him in September, 1943.

Mr. L. J. Lysaght, solicitor, Chief State Solicitor's Office, who prosecuted, told the District Justice that Sutcliffe, after he had been deported, returned here and had lived under the name of Wynne. Sutcliffe had hoped to start a commercial business under another name. He asked that a term of imprisonment should be given.

Sutcliffe, giving evidence, said that he had come here from Belfast to collect payment for a motor fishing vessel which he had sold, and had remained because he had been promised a job on a schooner plying between here and Preston.

Cruiskeen Lawn

By Myles na gCopaleen

DO you think Dublin Opinion is funny? Let us admit that they put many good things into it and how they keep it up month after month is a thing that beats me. I'll tell you a damn good one they have in the current issue—it may have escaped you because they have it hidden away in an advertisement. The advertisement is for an ointment and the testimony of a grateful client is given thus:

"After using your ———, my face started to clear up at once, and after using two jars of ointment it was gone altogether. . ."

That is a rather old-fashioned form of humour if you like, but it is funny. The client adds, somewhat unnecessarily:

"Your ointment did what injections failed to do . . ."

Probably you could get rid of your face through a course of injections, but it seems like going about the thing the hard way.

Extract

"The present time in this country was a time for moral courage, a time for outspokeness. They could see themselves every day being enmeshed in a network of bureaucracy. There was a lot of interference in industry, and he thought the sooner they got rid of party politics in this country, the better. He thought the country should get ready now to have a different system of electing the next government, and he thought the most simple one would be one on vocational lines, something on the lines of the Vocational Commission who had sent in their report. He had copy of the report, but he had not read it yet."

Remarks on Livestock

The same paper advertises an auction in Laoighis on the 21st September and says—

"Sale at eleven o'cluck (summer time) punctually."

I do not want to be offensive or to insult anybody, but I cannot help inquiring how long "eleven o'cluck" is after cockcrow.

Poultry and animals bring to mind certain odd deficiencies I have noticed and may have mentioned before. For instance, cocks keep away from dunghills. No matter where you may see a pig-tail, you will not see it on a pig. If a bull looks at you, he does this not with bulls-eyes. It is rarely remarked of a bull that he is bull-necked. Horses are never horse-whipped. Dogs give vent to many things, but never abuse. Pigeons are never found in pigeonholes. I have observed that bees travel through the air in great whirls and loops and never make bee-lines for their objectives. Moreover, they would be puzzled by any reference to their knees. A crow once explained to me that he invariably travels from Dublin to Drogheda via Mullingar and that any notion to the contrary was unfounded. Wasps don't wear corsets and their waists are perfectly normal. Nobody would dream of saying that monkeys are monkey-faced, or lions lion-hearted. The eagle hath not an eagle-eye. Mares eat oats, if you like, but they are unpossessed of nests.

"TOURIST MYSTERIES"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES

SIR,—I regret to remark an untrue statement in your leader today, to the effect that a promise remains to be fulfilled that "shelters soon would be provided for travellers within the city area." This company is mentioned by name, so that there is no misunderstanding. The fact is that immediately Dublin Corporation agreed to take over and maintain bus shelters, the company set about buying and erecting them. Orders were placed for shelters in steel and glass, as it had been decided that temporary structures, of the ugly and obstructive sort of the air raid shelters, were unacceptable. Since then, in eighteen months, the company has obtained fourteen shelters, or slightly more than the quota fixed by the authorities in relation to the steel components. Eight shelters have been erected and a further six will be erected soon, delay having been caused by inability to obtain cement for foundations. Others have been ordered, sites have been inspected and approved, and generally the company has done everything that has been possible in this matter.—Yours, etc.,

L. A. LUKE,
Public Relations Officer.

POINTS FROM LETTERS

FARM LABOURERS.—As one of many who are asked to accept the settlement between the Co. Dublin Agriculturists' Association and the Workers' Union of Ireland, may I suggest that some statutory notice should be issued, on the lines of the existing Orders which have been in force since April of this year? To me it is not at all clear whether the proposed increase of 4/- per week is in the nature of a bonus to meet an increase in the cost of living, or a permanent increase in the basic rates of pay, in supersession of the Government's existing Orders. It seems that this settlement further provides for an increase of 2/- per week to "youths." Presumably this increase is intended to apply to youths of under 20 years. If so, it should be stated.

Most employers of agricultural labour in the Co. Dublin are sympathetic with the claim of their employees for a square deal, particularly in these abnormal times. My own feeling is that the time has now come when the whole question of agricultural wages should be examined thoroughly under the ægis of the Government, and, if necessary, legislation introduced to enforce whatever decisions are reached.—"DUBLIN FARMER."

THE ABBEY THEATRE. — Mr. P. S. O'Hegarty says that the policy about Irish followed since 1922 would be upheld on a plebiscite by an overwhelming majority. I say to Mr. O'Hegarty: have your plebiscite and I will offer extravagant odds—say 1,000,000 to one—that the policy about Irish will be upheld by not more than 25 to 30 per cent. of the people of the twenty-six counties. But do you think Mr. de Valera would take the chance; or, though the result be what I expect, be bound by the result?—"PARENT."

Mr. P. S. O'Hegarty's letter contains an inaccuracy. He states that among the plays rejected by the directors of the Abbey Theatre was "The Pipe in the Fields," a one-act play by T. C. Murray. This, of course, is not the case, as the play referred to was given its first performance by the Abbey in October, 1927, and has been revived many times since.—"VERITAS."

WEDDING

Robinson—Mills.—The wedding took place on Monday last at St. Michael's Church, Limerick, of Howard Robinson, eldest son of the late Mr. W. W. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, Canada street, Waterford, and Miss Enid Mills, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mills, Ardlui, Belfield Park, Limerick. The Service was conducted by the Rev. R. Wyse Jackson. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by Miss Marjorie Coy. Mr. Richard Elgee was best man, and the groomsmen in the church were Messrs. Gordon Mills and John Worthington.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Castle in the Air

THE castle and the lake hang from a tree-studded sky of green lawns. A black retriever pads upside down across the avenue. The Blarney Stone is six inches above my face.

Although I am head down, a hundred feet above the ground, I am quite comfortable. There are bars beneath me, to ensure that I shall not be poured like molten lead between the battlements. Sir George Colthurst, who owns the place, and wants no bodies in his bushes, holds me by the legs. Were it not for the rich young blood, which shows signs of dripping out through my ears, I might stay here for many hours, studying the extraordinary scenery, wherein earth and sky are interchanged.

But Sir George is tiring. He asks: "Are you all right?" He wishes no longer to be holding a bunch of feet.

I kiss the Blarney Stone. It is cold and smooth, hollowed like an old door-step by many lips. It has also been hollowed like an old door-step by visitors who have come with hammer and chisel, practically resolved to perpetuate an unforgettable moment, by taking a fair-sized slice of the Blarney Stone away with them.

Sir George pulls me up by the legs. The countryside sweeps round in a circle, settles, and the small ceremony is over.

Tragedy

The Blarney Stone forms the outer edge of one of the ports through which lead was poured in the old days. But the port is now closed by iron bars. The Stone itself is strapped to the battlement above by two more iron bars. Heavy iron spikes prevent anybody standing on the battlement itself.

The spikes were put there after a youth killed himself. The youth, in a strange confusion of the Stone's purpose, tried to perform hand-stands on the battlement above it. The hand-stands finished fatally in the bushes below.

One other person has fallen from the castle—a gentleman, reputed to be in wine. He poured himself through the port. Being in a relaxed condition, he merely turned his ankle in passing through a fir tree, which arrested his fall.

But now only a human skeleton, or a very small child, could slip through the protective bars. There is virtually no danger of twisting one's ankle in the tree beneath.

Jacob's Pillow

One Father Prout, who wrote "The Bells of Shandon," is said to have launched the custom of kissing the Stone shortly before the battle of Waterloo. The Stone itself is said to be one of those upon which Jacob rested his head, while dreaming of his ladder. It was presented to Desmond, King of Munster by Richard Coeur de Lion, as a reward to Desmond for saving his life.

There is another version of the Stone's origin, also supplied by Sir George Colthurst. But this was relayed to me in the midst of a large tea party, and I feel I must have got something wrong. I understood Sir George to say that Jeremiah came to Ireland with his niece. The niece married Desmond, King of Munster, and Jeremiah gave them the Stone as a wedding present. The chronology here would impose a burden of some three thousand summers on the bride, putting a strain even upon the native eloquence of King Desmond. The name cannot have been Jeremiah.

There is another interesting thing about the Blarney Stone. It is almost exactly the same size, weight and composition as the Stone of Scone, upon which the Kings of England have been crowned.

Your Blarney

And now why should the Blarney Stone give the gift of successful untruth? Firstly—after Sir George Colthurst . . . . Desmond, King of Munster, being a trouble-maker, was continually summoned to the court of Elizabeth, to give the promise that now, at last, he would behave like a gentleman. Every time Desmond gave his word, returned to Blarney, and made some more trouble. Eventually, Elizabeth lost her never very stable temper, and said: "I'll have no more of your Blarney."

The second version was supplied by Major J. W. Seigne, who lives at St. Anne's Hydro, across the valley. Major Seigne introduces an altogether new character called MacCarthy Mor. On many occasions, says Major Seigne, Elizabeth tried to reduce Blarney Castle. Then MacCarthy Mor was summoned to London. He went. He told Elizabeth that everything would be all right this time. The Castle was hers, if she would call for it.

Elizabeth did. MacCarthy, being advised that Her Majesty's troops were outside, immediately ordered molten lead to be poured on top of them, forgetting the earlier arrangement. Elizabeth later said: "I'll have no more of your Blarney."

This is only one of the strange things that Major Seigne told me. I shall need a clean column to-morrow to speak about the remainder.

Cave and Dungeon

But what a mysterious place this Blarney Castle is. It is no ruin. The roof, and some of the floors, have fallen in. But there are many small rooms, almost unchanged since the days of King John—strange little alcoves and back stairs set in the fourteen-foot walls. The kitchen is still there, with its vast fireplace, in which oxen were roasted. There are powder closets and ante-rooms, and guard posts for the archers. Slits in the walls overlook every yard of the outer walls.

To the south-east, from the roof, lies Card Hill. From here Cromwell attacked with his cannon. And, before those cannon, Blarney Castle capitulated, for the first time in its history. But Cromwell found an empty fortress. Its defenders had fled through the natural cave that begins near the inner wall, and had its exit by the lake, a quarter of a mile away. The entrance to the cave is there to-day. But the other end is blocked. When the new castle was being built the foundations fell into the cave, sealing it for ever.

Under the castle itself are the dungeons, and in the heart of the dungeons an oubliette—a deep pit, into which internees were liable to fall in the darkness. Sir George has found bones and an old sword in the pit, and left them undisturbed.

Place of the Druids

Leaving the Castle, we came to the Rock Close. Stepping through a door in an old wall I found myself suddenly stand stock-still. It was like entering a cathedral, vast and silent. Here are yew trees a thousand years old, their tunks fluted like organ pipes. Here is a soft brown carpet of pine needles. And here are the altars of the Druids; the Wishing Steps, down which one must walk with closed eyes; and the Witch's Chair. On the rock above this tiny cave there grows a yew whose roots have burrowed through crevices in the stone to the earth beneath. The rock is in the grip of an octopus. For three thousand years this tree has grown around the rock, a creeping, silent living thing.

Everywhere is this silence of the centuries. Strangely fluted rocks stand sentinel in the pine needles. "They are witches," says Sir George, "after dark that one there drives five white cows to the river, and back again. By morning she has turned again to stone."

Card Hill. Cromwell and his cannon. The mighty trees, and the unchanging altars of the Druids. In the silence, very faintly, I can hear the sound of battle. I can hear music in the castle, the rustle of a silken dress in a stone stairway, a word from an archer as he is relieved at the battlements.

Here the stones, and the trees, and the past live on for ever.

OBITUARY

MR. A. KEOGH-NOLAN

The death has occurred at his residence, 46 St. Lawrence road, Clontarf, of Mr. Anthony Keogh-Nolan, a prominent figure in the life of the country. As a founder and secretary of the County Councils General Council, he was known to public men all over the country, who respected him as a highly efficient official. Also he was associated with the Irish Public Bodies Mutual Insurance Co. A follower of Parnell in his early days, Mr. Keogh-Nolan later took a part in the activities which led up to the Treaty of 1921. Keenly interested in aquatic sports he was mainly responsible for the organisation of the popular Metropolitan regattas. He was the founder, and honorary secretary of the Marine Lake Conference which was formed to bring about the development of the projected Blue Lagoon between Dollymount and Sutton, and he was one of the founders of the National Planning Conference, and acted as honorary treasurer of that body.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter and two sons.

MR. D. P. BLAYNEY

Mr. Daniel P. Blayney, whose death occurred yesterday at a Dublin nursing home, was a well-known member of the Irish legal profession.

He returned to Ireland and continued his practice at Naas up to the time of his retirement, about ten years ago. He was a brother of the late Surgeon A. McA. Blayney, of the Mater Hospital, of Major W. Blayney, R.A.M.C., and the late Dr. John Blayney, of Marboro'.

Before Baby Comes

Mother to-be will find it difficult to keep herself free from clogging poisons. The reason for this is that the system is called upon to perform extra tasks of elimination - if these are not carried out completely, toxins in the bloodstream cause depression, indigestion, nausea and morning sickness. Now all this is unnecessary. Just try this safe and simple way of avoiding all this and have full health and enjoyment during expectancy. First thing every morning put a teaspoonful of VOLA SELTZER into a tumbler of water and drink it, and in a few moments you will feel a different person. VOLA SELTZER is as gentle, safe, pure and pleasant as a glass of orange juice. Ask your chemist for VOLA SELTZER granules at 2/3 per bottle, you can also get it in tablet form at 2/3 per tube.

'That's how I got rid of my RHEUMATISM!'

On the experience of Mr. Basey, it is perseverance that counts in treating rheumatism. He writes :—

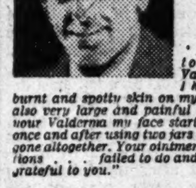

"I was abroad seven years, and when I returned I began to get rheumatism—particularly in the feet and arms. Three years ago I was taken into hospital, unable to move any joint of my body. I left the hospital after two months, when I was somewhat better. I was recommended to take Kruschen Salts, and I have taken them continuously. Since then I have gradually got rid of my rheumatism, until I am now entirely free of those awful pains."—M. Basey.

No remedy can bring permanent relief from rheumatism unless it performs three separate functions. These are (a) dispersal of the deposits of uric acid which cause the pain; (b) the expulsion of this acid from the system; (c) prevention of further accumulations of uric acid.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are the most effectual solvents of uric acid known to medical science. Other ingredients of these Salts assist the kidneys to expel the dissolved acid. Still other salts prevent food fermentation taking place in the intestine, and thereby check the further formation of mischievous uric acid.

Kruschen Salts is obtainable of all Chemists, price 1/9 per bottle.

PAINFUL BOILS HEALED

says grateful Lincoln man:

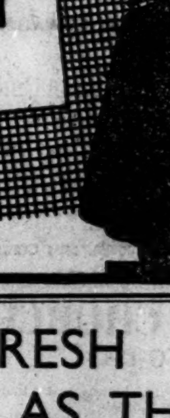

"I am writing to praise your Valderma ointment. I have suffered from burnt and spotty skin on my face for 3 years, also very large and painful boils. After using your Valderma my face started to clear up at once and after using two jars of ointment it was gone altogether. Your ointment did what injections ... failed to do and I shall always be grateful to you." J.A.D.

Recommended by Doctors

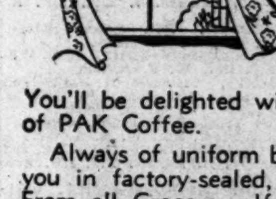

Skin troubles usually mean not one, but several groups of infecting organisms. Valderma contains two antiseptics, each of which is particularly deadly to certain strains of bacteria. That's why Skin Specialists prescribe Valderma for serious skin diseases. Dermatitis, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Rashes, "Athlete's Foot" and other common skin complaints react quickly to Valderma's "two-in-one" antiseptic properties—soothing, yet officially proved deadly to germs. Being an oil-in-water emulsion, Valderma prevents reinfection of the sore place, because it allows septic matter to pass out freely. Excellent for cuts and abrasions, too.

White and agreeable to use, Valderma doesn't stain and heals many skin troubles in only a few days, 2/- a jar.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel and you'll jump out of bed in the morning full of vim and vigour. The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxative helps a little, but a mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes these good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pints of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 1/3 and 3/-.

Stop Going Grey
and look Years Younger!

Make your hair an asset instead of a liability. Restore its natural colour this way. All you need is a simple, safe, quick, easy, inexpensive mixture you can make at home. Here's the recipe: To a bare half-pint of water add one ounce of Bay Rum, a small box of Orlex Compound, and a quarter-ounce of glycerine. That's all! Any chemist will make it up or supply the ingredients. Apply the mixture twice weekly and your grey hair will soon glow with natural colour. Orlex isn't sticky, won't rub off, and doesn't colour the scalp. Tear out this recipe and begin saying good-bye to grey hair to-day.
